

Stuff we love ...

I'm not too crazy about those have-they-ever-been-washed blue blankets that I use out of necessity on airplanes to ward off the chilling effects of overactive air conditioning. But I'm always very careful about what I carry on the plane as my bag is always jam packed with laptop, portable DVD player, and my latest obsession, DVD's of "Boston Legal." But this cute little Planecomfort kit comes with a blanket, inflatable pillow and pillowcase all in one. The blanket is very soft, folds up easily and is even big enough for two if your traveling with someone you want to snuggle with. I use it on car trips with my husband to ward off frostbite, as he enjoys tooling down the road at artic temperatures. Solid colors are $29.99 and prints are $39.99 at www.planecomfort.net

Do you have a scoop? Please email Jan at jan@travelgirlinc.com

By Jan Butsch Schroder